Sullivan's opinion, they have been guilty, like ourselves, of "astounding" conduct. Serjeant Sullivan denounces the late detestable rising with ganuine and convincing sincerity. We do not class him for a moment with Mr. Dillon, whose disgraceful speech in the House of Commons on Thursday will do his party immense and lasting harm. Nevertheless, both Serjeant Sullivan and Mr. Dillon conjure up a state of affairs which exists only in their own imaginations, and then proceed to build arguments on it. Serjeant Sullivan, allowing that the military authorities began well, suggests that some sort of hideous change has occurred during the last ten days, that the Government has lost a splendid opportunity of pacification, and that the rights of the Irish people are being trampled under foot. We affirm that there is not a word of truth in these fantastic suggestions. We think that, when Serjeant Sullivan says that the rebels who have paid the penalty of their crimes should have been tried before public tribunals. paid the penalty of their crimes should have been tried before public tribunals representing the community against which have been tried before public tribunals representing the community against which they had sinned, he forgets that the community was not Ireland alone, but the whole British Empire—and the whole British Empire in a state of war. The Irish confederates of Germany were executed under the laws of war, with the full authority and approval of His Majesty's Government. The main point is, however, that Serjeant Sullivan regards matters as a lawyer, while the citizens of Dublin regard them as men of affairs. He need have no fears for the British Constitution: it is not going to suffer, and nobody desires that it should to suffer, and nobody desires that it should suffer. Civil government will resume its sway as soon as military authority has wiped up the disastrous mess which civil government perpetrated. The citizens of Dublin are content to take the view of the man is the Bible who only knew that, "whereas I was blind, now I see." For years they enjoyed neither peace nor security; they are enjoying both under martial law. They welcome Lord Lansdowne's statement that martial law will

LIEUTENANT G. A. NEILAN.
Lieut. Gerald Aloysius Neilan, who met his death on Ellis' quay on Easter Monday, was the second surviving son of the late John Neilan, J.P., of Ballygalda, Roscommon, and of Mrs. Neilan, 4 Moune Harold terrace, Leinster road, Dublin. He was educated at Congowes Wood College, and on the outbreak of the South African War enlisted in the Sherwood Foresters, and served in South Africa, where he was severely wounded. From South Africa he went to China, where he remained with his regiment for six years, and then left the Army. In December, 1914, he was given a commission is the North-unberland Fusiliers, and later acted as musketry instructor. In February, 1916, he transferred to the Boyal Dublin Fusiliers, where he got his promotion, and was appointed hombing instructor. He was aged 34, and unmarried. Lieut. Neilan was a brother of Doctors J. A. and C. J. Neilan, of New Seaham, Co. Durham, and of Dr. A. J. Neilan, of Leinster road, Dublin.

INTENSE ARTILLERY ACTIVITY.

BRITISH REPORT. GENERAL HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE,
FRIDAY, 8.50 P.M.

Yesterday evening, after a heavy preliminary bombardment; the enemy succeeded in capturing about 500 yards of our front trenches, north-east of Vermelles.

We regained a portion of the ground lost by a counter-attack during the night.

To-day there has been no further infantry action, but considerable artiflery activity in this neighbourhood.

Further morth, opposite Quinchy, we bombarded the enemy's position. Otherwise nothing but minor artiflery duels at various points on the front, principally in the region of Thiepval Neuville, St. Vaast, Messines, Voormezeele, St. Eloi, and east of Ypres.

children from a burning house in Sackville street, and to reach safety it was necessary to ross of Connell Bridge, which was at the time in the direct line of fire. However, one of the soldiers hit upon the idea of hoisting the boy on his shoulder, telling him to hold his time hands over his head. Immediately the firing ceased, and the gallant rescuers, with their helpless burdens, crossed in safety.

On the left bank of the Meuse there was intense artillery activity in the sector from Avocourt Wood to Mort Homme.
In the course of the night the Germans vainly attempted to dislodge us from positions we captured on the western slopes on the 10th. Two successive attacks were repulsed by our fire.
On the right bank there was a bombardment of the Douaumont-Vaux region.
On the rest of the front the night was comparatively calm.

11 F.M.
On the left bank of the Meuse partial actions in the course of the day enabled us to extend appreciably our position to south-cast of Haucourt. There was a somewhat lively bombardment of the region Mort Hommen to four first and second lines between the Haudromont Wood and Vaux.

A German attack against our trenches to the south-east of Douaumont Fort was completely repulsed.
On the rest of the front there was a wilcent bombardment of our first and second lines between the Haudromont Wood and Vaux.

A German attack against our trenches to the south-east of Douaumont Fort was completely repulsed.
On the rest of the front there was a stillery, activity, which was particularly sharp in Champagne and in the Vosges.

AMSTERDAM, FRIDAY.

The following official communique has been speech, said—We do not desire to stiffe discussion and are quite ready to take part in it. This rebellion has been, so my mind, one of the some Palatinate battalions stormed several episodes in the recent history of Ireland. It has involved the destruction of property, the South-east of the Hoheuzollern Redoubt some Palatinate battalions stormed several lines of the British position. So far 127 unwounded prisoners and several machine gunshave been brought in. The enemy suffered in addition, most sangefnary losses, especially in an unsuccessful counter attack.

In the Argonne an attack by the French, who employed flame-throwers, on the Fille Morte failed.

In the region of the Meuse there was lively artillery activity on both sides. Except for a weak French attempt to attack in Thiammont Wood, there was no infantry action worth recording.

EASTERN FIELD.

Subjoined is Thursday's Russian commons of the following in Subjoined is Thursday's Russian communiqué:—
On the front in the regions of Jacobstadt. Dwinsk, and south-west of Lake Naroez, and in the direction of Baranowitchi, the enemy produced in many sectors a violent artillery fire. West of Olyka we repulsed an attempt made by considerable enemy forces to approach our trenches.

In the region of the Middle Strypa, east of Podgaitsy, a German captive balloon broke from its moorings and fell behind our lines near Gussiatin.

AMSTERDAM, Friday.

The official communiqué received here from Constantinople to-day is as follows:—
Irak Front.—The situation is unchanged, and came to earth on fire behind the enemy's trenches.

Caucasus Front.—The enemy, whom we ex-kostile aeroplane was hit by our guns, and came to earth on fire befind the enemy's trenches.

Caucasus Front.—The enemy, whom we expelled from his positions on the 18th inst., is being pursued eastwards. He is making every effort to maintain himself in his rew positions. The number of machine guns captured by us during this fighting has increased to five.

A heatile guardship which tried to approach leike Burnu was driven off by our artillery. In the waters of Smyrna a hostile monitor opened fire off the island of Makonisi. Our latteries replied and hit the monitor, wose funnel and mast were destroyed. The monitor ceased firing, and tetired in the direction of Mytilene, rolling heavily.

TWO BRAVE SOLDIERS,

A nurse who was of emporary duty as nurse during the "Sinn Fein" rising in Dublin says that one night about 10 o'clock, when some of the nurses were about to retire after a day of unusual stress and excitement, she saw two soldiers crossing the hall of the hospital, each carrying a bundle in his arms. The bundles were two young children—one to us. So they were. We had last opportune to us. So they were we had last to the sources of information were on us. So they were We had last Conferences of the clergy of the Diocese of Killaloe have been stranged by the Bishop, and will be held as follows:—At Ballinasloe on Monday, May 15th, at 11.30 a.m.; at Ennis on Tuesday, May 16th, at 11.45 a.m.; at Nenagh, on Thursday, May 16th, at 12.15 p.m. Each cunference will be preceded by a celebration of the Boly Communion.

"CHURCH OF IRELAND-GAZETTE."

The current issue is again largely devoted to the rebellion. Both leading articles—"The Robellion and After" and "Perverted Patriotism"—and most of the Notes of the Week deal with the aftermath of the rising. In connection with the meeting of the General Syndo on June 20th the prespects of reorganising the meetings of the various Church Societies are discussed. The War Notes, after further reference to the rebellion, take up the broken thread of the general war news.

CHURCH OF ST. JOHN THE BAPTIST, CLONTARF.

In view of the fiftisth analversary of the consecration of the above church, now approaching, the present is regarded as an appropriate time to make an effort to raise a fund for the purpose of wining out a debt of £200 standing against the building and to renovate its interior, more especially the chancel. To this end special services will be held in the church to morrow, and the preacher in the morning will be the Archbiahop of Dublin, and in the evening Rev. Canon Marvyn, a former rector. It is hoped that the collections at these services will be sufficient to remove the financial difficulties which hamper the parish in all its undertaking.

PAYING FOR FOOD

Is the cry for Economy merely a parrot-cry or catch-word—something to prattle and prate about—or is it something that calls for ACTION? The answer is not in doubt for thousands in Ireland now and in the days to come. ECONOMY in food finds its most perfect solution in White's Wafer Oatmeal. It is the splendidly nourishing and tasty Irish brand of rolled oats which all grocers sell in damp-proof packets—a true Staff of Life, most nourishing, most ECONOMICAL firmness was attributable mainly to prepara-Loan market to-day, but presumably increased firmness was attributable mainly to preparation for big week-end payments, by the Government, which should-cause a slackening of tighter conditions to-morrow. Call money was quoted at $\frac{3}{2}$ to $4$ p.c., and weekly loans were firm at the latter figure. Dividend vayments rather exceeded a quarter of a million. There was no material change in the discount market, though the harder tone of loan rates was reflected to some extent in quotations for the shorter-dated maturities. The supply of bills remained very small. Two months drafts were posted at $4\frac{1}{2}$ p.c., three months at $4\frac{1}{2}$ to $4\frac{1}{2}$ p.c., three months at $4\frac{1}{2}$ to $4\frac{1}{2}$ p.c.. Theire was no alteration in posted quotations for commercial bills.
